A few weeks ago Mr. Zirkle and one or two members of his family were strolling about the place, and removing a fow stones that they though might cover an aperture, revealed a jagged opening descending almost pependicularly. Having procured lights, they descended, and at the depth of thirty feet found themselves in a roomy chamber. Exploration has been vigorously prosecuted by Mr. Zirkle and his two sons, J. C. and E., and they have up to this date penetrated to the distarce of nearly a mile in a direct line.

The descent into the first chamber is now made easy by means of a wooden stairway. An spartment following this is about forty fect high, 300 feet long and forty feet wide, and this is succeeded by a room 100 by fifty feet and fifteen feet high. From this a benetifully arched passage leads to a chamber fifty by fifty feet and thirty feet high, in which one of the wonders of the cave is to been seen. The floor is divided by an immenso fissure, which extends in a semi-circular form to the next aparlment. A stairway has been constructed to the bottom of the fissure, fifty or wikly feet below, where is found a stream of polluc d water five or six feet in width.

The next chamber, called the "diamend room," because of the brilliancy of the incrustations on its walls, is 225 feet long, fi'ty feet wide, and forty or fifty feet high, with a level ceiling, and following this is a magnificent hall, 400 by 100 feet, and from thirty to forty feet in height. At one end of this apartment is a pit fifteen or twenty feet in length or depth. This is the farthest point to which a path has been opened and any one can comfortably go. With great difficulty a person can creep over steep and slippery surface between the pit and one of the walls, and then by crowding himself through a small opening can reach an other interesting feature of the cavero. This is a gallery formed in a perfect circle, 300 or 400 feet in circumference, with a floor as level as that of a ball room, and a ceiling six or eight feet high, arched with the utmost accuracy. At a point nearly opposite the cotrance are two wells, with perpendicular walls leading to a lower level, and here exploration in this direction had stopped. From the bottom of the bit before mentioned a narrow crevice leads to a series of low chambers 100 feet below the gallery, which have not yet been investigated. The ormation in this cave comprise all of those which are common to the other caves of Virginia. The resemblances to jeatuary are numerous. In one of the chambers is a stalce. tite, brown in color; with a figure in pure white of the exact form of a mouse upon it. The characteristic feature is the presence of a vast quantity of fine, perfectly limpid crystals, cov ering large sections of the walls and floor .-Baltimore Bulletin.

New York, Sept. 19, 1877.

Dr. Tutt: Dear Sir—During this year I treated nine hundred cases of lung diseases. In the lower wards of the city the cases were of a very severe type. It was there my attention was called to Tutt's Expectorant, and I confess my surprise at its wonderful nower. During a pracsurprise at its wonderful power. During a prac-tice of twenty years I have never known a medcine of twenty years I have never known a medicine to act as promptly and with such happy effects. It instantly subdued the most violen fits of coughing, and invariably cured the disesse in a few days. I cheerfully endorse it as the best lung medicine I ever used.

Dr. Tutt: Dear Sir—My little son was attacked with pneumonia last winter, which left him with a violent cough that lasted till within a month since, for the cure of which I am indebted to your valuable Expectorant. I had tried most everything recommended, but none did any good until I used your Expectorant, one bottle of which removed the cough entirely. With many thanks, I am yours truly,

JOHN M. WEIGLE.

HAD TERRIBLE NIGHT SWEATS.

Memphis, February 11, 1871.

Dr. Tutt: Sir—I have been suffering for nearly two years with a severe cough. When I commenced taking your Expectorant I was reduced to one hundred and sixteen pounds in weight. I had tried almost everything; had terrible night sweats. I have taken half dozen bettles. The night sweats have left me the bottles. The night sweats have left me, the cough has disappeared, and I have gained fifteen pounds in flesh. I recommend it to all my friends. With great respect,
